

LANGUAGE OF LEADERSHIP

LEAD THE JURY TO A VERDICT IN YOUR FAVOR

To be a leader, you must have a vision of where you want to go, know how to get there, and then motivate others to follow. But that is only the beginning. Without the ability to clearly communicate your vision in a way that includes others, your ability to lead is stunted.

When you can clearly articulate and demonstrate, through powerful nonverbals, the vision you hope jurors adopt, and your ability to help them achieve it, they will join you. True leadership simply takes jurors where they always wanted to go. But you have to be able to communicate that destination in a way that inspires trust.

Join Sari de la Motte for Leadership in Court where you'll learn:

- Why the jury needs safety and how safety is communicated through leadership
- How nonverbal intelligence impacts your ability to lead and draw a following
- Three myths about leadership that may be sabotaging your efforts
- The difference between a good communicator and a leader
- Nonverbal presentation skills that will add credibility to your message
- The role of charisma and how to increase yours
- Our #1 communication skill for conveying confidence and leadership
- ... and more!

Sari de la Motte is nationally known as 'the Attorney Whisperer.' She specializes in helping trial attorneys communicate with jurors. Based in Portland, Oregon, she helps attorneys all over the United States prepare for trial and is an expert in nonverbal communication. You can learn more at: saridlm.com